About “The Ambassadorial Lecture Series”

In late 2010 CENS has launched “The Ambassadorial Lecture Series” and has hosted over 40 of such events, featuring distinguished members of the diplomatic community in Hungary on the political and economic situations in their countries, as well as their views on international affairs. The series takes place every month at the premises of CEU and provides an opportunity for its audience to hear the perspectives of acknowledged speakers and policy-makers on current issues of importance concerning the future of Europe and the world. CENS continues with the series in its original form and will further engage in debates with the CEU community and wider public on present and future relevant events and issues.
